

THE DEMOCRATIC VOICE

LAXDEMS.COM

Now that the Inauguration of President Trump (still difficult to think about) is over, many of us probably feel that we are still waiting to wake up from a dark nightmare. Watching the selections for Cabinet picks who clearly appear to be unqualified for the positions for which they have been selected also has been dismaying.

The temptation can be, as Hillary first said, "to curl up with my dog and a good book and never leave the house again." But she is getting back out there, and as the "loyal" opposition to the Trump regime, it is our duty to do the same. People are marching all over the globe in opposition to Trump's executive orders, and several groups around Wisconsin and the nation are mobilizing to fight back. We will work to coordinate our efforts with those of other organizations to ensure a sustained effort at building on our respective strengths, and revitalize our Democratic Party.<

This edition of our newsletter contains an article on how our party lost the rural vote, and another on how demographics affected the outcome of the election.

Most agree that external influences like Russia and the FBI definitely had an impact on the outcome of the election. We will need to let the investigations into those issues play out (if they are actually going to continue now that Trump is actually in office). But there are actions we must take NOW to begin to bring back voters we lost in this last election and convince them that the Democratic Party is the one that has their interests at heart. We need to focus on reaching rural, non-college-educated, and minority voters, and those workers who have lost their jobs or who are underemployed.

Your Executive Board is organizing a number of committees that will be undertaking several activities to reach out to voters who may have felt disenfranchised by our Party. These activities include several events and communication efforts, and we hope you will join a committee that meets your interests. At our next general meeting, we will update you on the latest committee efforts. And, as we have mentioned before, we also look forward to your own ideas and input for how these committees can best move the Party forward in 2017, laying the groundwork for the next mid-term elections.

Let's turn this past election into a real positive for the future of the Democratic Party !!!

SCOTT PRUITT (EPA Administrator): Pruitt is a notorious shill for the polluting fossil fuel industry -- which has given him more than $300,000 since 2002. Pruitt erroneously claims climate change is "far from settled" among scientists and brags he has "led the charge against the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency."

As Oklahoma Attorney General, he has repeatedly sued the EPA to attack the Clean Power Plan and Clean Water Rule, even passing off as his own a letter written and delivered to him by a big oil company lobbyist that criticized the EPA.

- STEVE MNUCHIN (Treasury Secretary): Steve Mnuchin is an ultra-wealthy former Goldman Sachs executive who got rich at the expense of working Americans. He ran a bank described as a "foreclosure machine" that kicked people out of their houses, using techniques so cold-blooded a federal judge called them "harsh, repugnant, shocking and repulsive," foreclosing on more than 36,000 homes. He and his family pocketed $3.2 million in fake profits from notorious Ponzi scheme fraudster Bernie Madoff. Mnuchin will run the Treasury Department to benefit Wall Street, saying his "number one priority on the regulatory side" is attacking Dodd-Frank Wall Street reforms reining in big banks.
- BETSY DeVOS (Secretary of Education): Betsy DeVos is another billionaire, committed to destroying public schools, planning to give our schools to Wall Street cronies while imposing a right-wing social agenda at the same time. The New York Times* reported that the education policies she helped impose in Detroit led to a "total and complete collapse" of that city's school system. She once said that her work on vouchers -- taking taxpayer money away from public schools and giving it to religious schools -- helped "advance God's kingdom."

- REX TILLERSON (Secretary of State): As CEO of Exxon, Tillerson has specialized in partnering with dictators and human rights abusers from Equatorial Guinea to Qatar to Kazakhstan. But his closest ties are with Russia, where after billions of dollars in oil deals Vladimir Putin awarded Tillerson Russia's Order of Friendship. Exxon even complained international sanctions against Russia cost the company $1 billion. Under Tillerson's leadership, Exxon has faced securities fraud investigations for lying to investors and funding climate deniers decades after it knew the truth about climate change.

An opening in an At Large position has occurred on the Executive Board. Per our bylaws, Article VI, Section 6, ". . .the Executive Board will appoint a person to fill the unexpired term subject to the approval of the members at the next meeting of the organization." Anyone interested in filling this position would contact me by midnight Friday, January 6th at jwine@charter.net or 609-783-0172

How to Move Forward after a Divisive Election

"Opportunity is missed by most people because it is dressed in overalls and looks like work." - Thomas Edison
My mom came from a family of Republican ranchers and my dad came from a family of Democratic businessmen - and we never lacked for lively dinner conversation. This taught me to listen to different views and find common ground. That approach helped me cut through Washington's toxic partisanship. I worked with many in Congress to pass bills with bipartisan support. Of course, there will always be legislation that draws fire or divides Congress. I voted for the Affordable Care Act, which is not perfect but is helping millions of people. I was attached relentlessly for this vote, but I still believe that helping people access affordable health care is a worthy fight. And I fought for Medicaid expansion, an important part of the ACA. Unfortunately, fixing our broken immigration system gets more lip service than action. Rather than threatening to build walls or deport people, politicians should pass comprehensive immigration reform and the DREAM Act to keep families together, meet labor needs and crack down on criminals. In the aftermath of this election, I worry that fear and anger are dividing our nation. If these divisions grow deeper, they will be even harder to heal. I urge my fellow Americans to take action in the spirit of lifting each other and our most vulnerable communities. We need more people, not fewer, to participate in civic life - whether you choose to engage by volunteering, educating, protesting, donating, or even running for office. If we want a stronger future, we must model resilience, not resentment, for the next generation of leaders. Cynicism and disillusionment will lead us nowhere. Let's show our young people we are willing to work harder to build the nation that we want. by Ann Kirkpatrick The election in November didn't go my way, but I've been bucked off a horse before. When that happens, you get up and get right back in the saddle. I am ready to join my fellow Americans in looking to the future. . . let's seize those new opportunities -- especially the ones that look like work. . .

THINGS WE CAN DO AS PROGRESSIVES AND/OR DEMOCRATS TO MOVE FORWARD IN A POSITIVE WAY

(BASED ON NOVEMBER 30TH MEETING AT HOME OF ROZ SCHNICK) READING MATERIALS (READ AND DIGEST) Article by George Lakoff entitled "A Minority President: Why the polls failed and what the majority can do" to determine what we can do to move forward. This approach is also supported by Martha Laning, Chair of the Democratic Party of Wisconsin (DPW). Here is the website for the article:

 Book by Katherine Cramer entitled "The Politics of Resentment: Rural Consciousness in Wisconsin and the Rise of Scott Walker".
 Summary of future initiatives and positive developments based on column by E.J. Dionne entitled "The good that can come from a Trump Presidency". See Attachment I for the summary of Dionne's column.

INTERACTIONS AND CONVERSATIONS WITH PEOPLE AND OURSELVES

- a. Determine what it means to be a Progressive and/or a Democrat (i.e., basic values) and then proclaim it in a variety of ways and venues.
- b. Define some of the more important issues that need to be addressed. Examples: K12 public and higher education needs and forms of support, etc.
- c. Talk with people you know or have met on the street, shops, airplanes, etc. to join with us to work toward positive outcomes in the next elections. Share your stories and encourage others to not give up.

- d. Truly listen to those that see the world differently than we do and then try to counter those things that either are not true or that can be met in the middle so that we can work together for the common good
- e. Look for people/groups that create a sense of solidarity and relate to them in ways that lift up our spirits; resist crawling into a cave.
- f. Look for ways to engage the millennials and other younger persons and tell our story about what Progressives and/or the Democratic Party have meant and continue to mean to the average person.
- g. Join groups and organizations that are active in supporting the causes we care about (example: Common Cause).
- h. Need ways to find joy and humor in our lives.
- i. Rediscover ourselves and get energized.

SUPPORT OF OUR ELECTED OFFICIALS AND IDENTIFY POTENTIAL CANDIDATES

- a, If currently not a member of the La Crosse County Democratic Party (LCDP) or DPW, join and become active in helping with messaging, funding, activities, and ideas (DPW website: <http://www.wisdems.org>). If currently a member, become more active. Here are some of the things we can do:
 - i. Contribute to the upcoming permanent La Crosse office being proposed by DPW.
 - ii. Attend LCDP meetings and become active.
 - iii. Interact with and support the DPW efforts for improving positive election results.
 - iv. Become aware of the issues and respond in your own way.
 - v. Help identify good progressive candidates for local/state/national offices.
- b. Do all we can to support our local/state/national elected officials to maintain our elected officials. Understand what issues and programs they support and why; then, immediately start to make the voters aware of these points to gain support for the re-elections of our officials.
 - i. National elected officials-both are going to have tough battles in 2018 given the shift in voters.
 - 1. U.S. Senator Tammy Baldwin
 - 2. U.S. Congressman Ron Kind, 3rd Congressional District
 - ii, .State elected officials in our area
 - 1. State Senator Jen Shilling in 2020
 - 2. State Assembly Representatives Jill Billings and Steve Doyle in 2018

ATTACHMENT I: INITIATIVES AND POSITIVE DEVELOPMENTS FOR THE FUTURE (BASED ON ARTICLE BY E.J. DIONNE, DECEMBER 29, 2016)
 Social and Political Initiatives Already Starting

1. Defending Obamacare
 2. Protecting the environment
 3. Standing up for immigrants and minorities
 4. Preserving civil liberties
 5. Preserving and advancing civil rights and voting rights
 6. Highlighting how Trump's policies contradict his promises to working-class voters
- Positive Developments for the Future
1. Elites and the media are paying attention to the parts of the country that have been falling behind economically and to the despair that afflicts so many, particularly in rural and small-town America.
 2. Us being reawakened to the injustices of both class and race and rededicating ourselves to remedying them together.
 3. Our justified skepticism about Trump is no substitute for fresh thinking about what we will do when we next take power.
 4. Democrats seem to recognize that they need to have a clear, comprehensible and convincing economic message instead of the muddled message they had.
 5. Voters will notice if Republicans fail to apply to Trump the same ethical standards they demanded of Hillary Clinton.
 6. Voters will realize that the Republicans' claims to fiscal prudence will be exposed as fiction if they follow through on pledges to combine large tax cuts, mostly for the rich, with big increases in military spending.
 7. Voters will start counting the costs of Republican budgets and find them too high.
- These include:
- a. Radical budgets to satisfy Republican's ideological enthusiasts, knowing in the past that their policies would never become law.
 - b. Republicans effort to enact their full agenda on shrinking Medicare, Medicaid and other social programs.
